MENDOCINO VALLEY SCENES — COUNTY BUILDINGS — MENDOCINO LOGGING AND COAST SCENES

VOL. XXVIII. UKIAH, MENDOCINO CO., CAL.: FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1904 NO. 49

THE DEMOCRATS HAVE SLOW TIME

The Democratic county convention was called to order at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in Marks' opera house. John Lane was chosen chairman and W. A. Ford secretary. The convention was slow and lacked snap and vigor. There were no contests as the delegates that attended, and there was a noticeable slimness, were all tied down with pledges and might as well have been so many wooden men. Chairman Lane refused to allow any deviation from the order of business and stuck straight to the order as adopted, refusing to put a motion made by Mr. Foushee, of Fort Bragg, to the effect that the delegates each dig up to the amount of a half toward defraying convention expenses. The delegates dug up later, however, and the candidates were taxed five

J. B. Sanford read the platform, which was a mixture of large words and pauses for applause that did not come, mingled with denunciations of trusts and declaring that the government had degenerated into a monarchy. The national platform of the party that will be adopted at St. Louis was pronounced the proper thing. The platform was amended and bouquets for Senator Sanford and Assemblyman Weger were inserted. Weger was described as an able active and fearless representative of the people but Weger was not present and no one bothered to dispute it. Later when that gentleman was renominated the length of his residence in the country was dwelt on, the fact that he has not actually lived in the country for several years being entirely overlooked.

Attorney J. C. Ruddock was also placed in nomination for the assembly fight but wisely declined to accept the gilded brick at the hands of the gentlemen who have on several occasions refused to give him a square deal.

It was thought that there might be some excitement over the nomination for supervisor in this district as the Smith faction was out maneuvered at the primaries by the Gibson's and enough nonresidents voted in precinct one to carry the delegation and give the majority of the delegates to Gibson although it is said Smith got the long end of the popular vote. The further fact that the Gibson camp had given out the word that they were not sparing whether they got the support of the Smiths in the November campaign or not also gave color to the report of trouble.

Nothing was said, however, and the supervisors nominated were: D. H. Lawson, 1st district; M. L. Gibson, 2nd; H. D. Rowe, 3rd; John Flanagan 4th.

Five central committee men for each supervisor district were appointed by the convention with the chairman as an exofficio member and fifteen to be appointed at large, making a total of forty-one.

Goddess of Liberty

The vote in the goddess of liberty contest, as reported by the committee Thursday afternoon was as follows:

Miss Thursa Hargis	129
" Birdie Mooney	117
" Susie Gibson	105
" Neal Terry	201
" Jessie Wisecarver	110
" Mary McCowen	105
" Ella McGough	10
" Adelle McMurry	110
" Sidney Edwards	100
" Grace Mathews	101
Mrs. John McNab	105
" Esther Montague	101

The contest will close at 8:30 Saturday evening, June 25. The committee has decided that the young lady receiving the second highest vote shall be California.

Baseball Game.

The opening game of the season will be played at the Ukiah baseball grounds Sunday. The Ukiahites will then cross bats with the Geyservilles and a warm game is expected.

The Finley case came up in the superior court yesterday morning. A jury was secured in the afternoon and the case is now proceeding.

Improvements at the Palace

Frank Sandelin has fitted up a gentlemen'n private sitting room at the rear of the Palace hotel bar room. The room is handsomely furnished with solid hickery pieces and has a very inviting appearance. It is a new departure in Ukiah hotels. The Palace bus has also beed thoroughly overhauled and painted by Charles Barrick. It is ornamented by two handsome oil paintings on the panels on oither side, the work of Miss Etta White.

For Charity.

There will be a garden party at Mrs. C. P. Turner's, asylum road, Thursday night, June 16th from 8 to 10. A good program will be rendered and ice cream and cake will be served at fifteen cents for the benefit of the outing fund of the San Francisco children's hospital. Everybody will be welcome.

Elect Officers.

Last Friday night the following officers were elected for Ukiah lodge, I. O. O. F., for the ensuing term: Dr. A. E. Dickinson, N. G; H. J. Waugh, V. G; A. O. Carpenter, secretary; C. Hofman, treasurer; Nelson Evans, Alex Bailey and E. G. Case, trustees.

Broke an Ankle.

Garry Stock, while wrestling with another boy Saturday night, fell in such a manner as to break his left leg. The fracture was in the ankle. The accident occurred near Wilson & York's hall while a dance was in progress.

Ladies for Trustees.

At the meeting in the Pine Ridge school district, held on June 3rd, Mrs. T. M. Conlin, Mrs. Cole Chapman and Mrs. Peter Laulhe were elected trustees for the coming year.

OLD LANDMARKS ARE DESTROYED

The painters this week covered up one of the old landmarks of the town. It was the sign of Irvine & Klein, realestate agents, painted on the front of the Redemeyer building on State street. The sign has withstood the weather for over fifteen years and was still distinct. Mr. Irvine has resided in Willits for a number of years and is the treasurer of the Irvine & Muir company. Wm. Peery recently moved into the building, alleging as a cause for the change that he would have a ready-made sign. The painter, however, had an eye to business and covered the inscription.

Another landmark was the old Trout school house on the Perkins' lot opposite the Methodist church. This was moved away by Mr. Perkins' to make way for a modern cottage.

The Court House Steps.

Carpenters have been at work this week putting in new steps in front of the court house and making some other necessary improvements in the State street entrance. It is intended to put in stone steps later on but the old ones were in such a bad condition that something had to be done immediately. The wooden ones are a great improvement.

Too Early.

Dr. Bolster writes from St. Louis as follows: To those who contemplate coming to St. Louis for the fair, let me state that the exhibits are not ready and all will not be for some time. September will be the best time to come. Have not seen one one building that is entirely completed. It is a big show and there is lots to see now.

Letter From Rev. Pew

Rev. W. W. Pew writes from Concord: We were compelled to make the change from Oroville on account of the health of both Mrs. Pew and myself and we have been much benefited by coming here. Am temporarily in charge of the work of the Christian church here.

THE PENSIONS OF OUR HEROES

County Clerk McCowen reports that he makes out about forty pension vouchers every quarter for veterans living in this vicinity. The pensioners are drawn by survivors and widows of veterans of five wars and Mr. McCowen states that for a number of years he drew vouchers for the sixth war for Grandpa John Hansard, of Redwood valley, who died a few years ago at nearly the century mark and was a veteran of the war of 1812.

Mrs. Emma Barnes is the only pensioner of the Black Hawk war of 1832 in the neighborhood and draws a widow's allowance for the services of her late husband in that campaign. The other wars represented are the Spanish American war of '98; the rebellion of '61; Mexican of '47 and the Indian of '56. Mrs. Bailey is the widow of a veteran of '56 and receives this pension.

W. W. Waldo is said by Mr. McCowen to be the only veteran he ever knew who possessed three honorable discharges. Mr. Waldo was one of the first recruits of the civil war and enlisted for three months in '61. He again enlisted for three years and as the war was not over when he received his discharge again enlisted and fought until the close of the campaign. James B. Benton enlisted during the Mexican war and remained in the army for nineteen years and six months and has probably the longest record of actual service of any of the local veterans.

The pension roll brings into town every quarter nearly $1500, an amount that sounds quite large, but is in reality a mere pittance for the men who risked their lives for their country when it stood in need.

The list of pensioners, the amount a month and the date of wars for which the pensions are drawn as furnished by Mr. McCowen are as follows:

Relieved From Suffering.

Mrs. Martha M. Ledford, wife of F. G. Ledford, proprietor of the Cloverdale-Elk stage line, passed away at her home in Cloverdale Monday after a long illness. The deceased was a native of California and had resided for a number of years in the southern portion of this county where she was well-known and highly esteemed.

Spawn From Truckee River.

Col. LaMotte reports having received two cases or about 300,000 trout eggs from Truckee river. He planted them Monday morning and when the little fishes hatch they will be used for stocking local streams.

GRAPE CULTURE IN THIS COUNTY

L. Finne, of Calpella, was in town this week on jury duty. Mr. Finne is a prosperous vineyardist from Calpella and states that the hillsides of Mendocino county equal anything he has ever seen for grape culture and predicts that the wine business will at no far distant date rank as well in this county as in the neighboring counties of Sonoma and Napa. Mr. Finne and his wife are both of sturdy German parentage and learned the art of wine making on the banks of the Rhine.

Twenty six years ago they arrived in this country and decided to locate in this county. Mr. Finney's long experience in raising grapes led him to believe that the low range of hills back of Calpella would make an ideal vineyard. He accordingly purchased several acres and cleared it of brush, planting the choicest grapes he could secure. His labor was rewarded by a good crop. He has since enlarged his vineyard until he now has 35 acres under cultivation, four acres of which are new vines and not in full bearing. His vines are absolutely free from insect pests and in much better condition than those in other counties.

His wine cellar is built partly in the hillside and provides an ample store house. It is a model of neatness and is filled with large puncheons and tanks. He makes from 6000 to 8000 gallons of wine a year. It is the finest quality—claret, port and white wines—and meets with a ready sale. In fact he has sold his product to the Italian-Swiss colony at Asti for several years, having shipped the last two carloads of a 12000 gallon order to them last week. He also has a number of smaller customers and ships wine to a number of states in the union.

Mr. Finne is proud of his success in the wine business and is anxious to see it become a more prominent industry in Mendocino county. He is courteous and obliging and takes a pleasure in showing visitors through his winery and is always ready to give the benefit of his experience to others.

Since Mr. Finne's winery has proved a success grapes have been put out on the old Quinliven place and it is very probable that before many years more will follow the example as there is no question that just as fine wine can be made in Mendocino county as anywhere in the world.

Banks Distributes Bugs.

Horticultural Commissioner J. R. Banks this week received from the state horticultural commission a number of the insects comys fusca, the enemy to the brown apricot scale, sometimes known as the San Jose scale. Mr. Banks at once distributed the insects in different orchards known to be infected with the scale.

These insects came from China, the original home of the brown apricot scale, and so it was there that the commissioner sent abroad by the state legislature discovered the scale's natural enemy. The comys fusca is being propagated by the state horticultural commission and distributed among the infested orchards as fast as possible, and it is expected that the scale will in time be effectually stamped out. The bugs are sent out in glass tubes, properly protected for mailing.

Looks Suspicious.

D. M. Lowe of Hopland was in town Monday. He reports having lost 160 head of sheep off his range and has not yet been able to secure any trace of them. They have disappeared so completely that he belives thieves have been at work.

Will Visit Yosemite Valley.

George Case left this week for a trip to Yosemite valley. He will accompany his uncle Dr. I. Cohn and family. Dr. Cohn is assistant superintendent of the Napa asylum.

Was Made a Citizen.

Chris Ottoson, Jacob Strauss and David McArthur, all of Comptche, were in Ukiah Monday. The trio of gentleman are all substantial residents of that section and they visited the county seat on matters of business. Mr. Ottoson purchased an eighty acre tract of timber from Johnny Strauss and had the transfer made while here. Mr. McArthur was made a citizen of the United States while in town, and Mr. Strauss, who is father-in-law of the other two, came along to keep the younger gentlemen out of trouble. By the way, Mr. Strauss is an old resident of the county, and he made many comparisons of the Ukiah when he came to Mendocino and the modern city of today. All three of the gentlemen are among Mendocino's best citizens.

On Their Honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bourdon of San Francisco came up last week and are visiting Mrs. B. A. Chilson. Mrs. Bourbon was Miss Laura Case, a niece of Dr. E. G. Case, of this city, and is wellknown here, having been employed for some time as stenographer in the offices of Weldon & Held. The groom is from Toledo, Ohio, and is also known here. The wedding occurred at the residence of the bride's mother in San Francisco last Wednesday afternoon.

On a Camping Trip.

Tom and Charles Burger, formerly of this county, have sold their cigar stand in Healdsburg. In company with several other young gentlemen they have started on a camping trip through this and Lake counties.

Lumber Shipments.

According to Wood & Iron, the redwood shipments from this county during May was as follows: Lumber, 13,674,976; ties, 47,304.

COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION.

The first annual convention of the Mendocino County Sunday School association closed Tuesday evening last. Each session of the convention was well attended and each subject was well presented and much discussed. Many questions received practical answers, and all expressed themselves as having received much help and many practical suggestions on Sunday school work. The convention was certainly a success in as much as it accomplished the object for which it was held—to give ideas which will enable our Sunday schools to bring their work up-to-date and to solve the problems that are hindering work. Chas. R. Fisher, secretary of the state Sunday School association, and Rev. G. W. Beatty, evangelist for the Methodist Episcopal church, both men of large experience in Sunday school work, were present and gave valuable aid.

The Fort Bragg churches extended the convention an invitation to meet there next year. The invitation was accepted. Mrs. A. McCorquodale was elected as county delegate to the state Sunday school convention at Pacific Grove, June 21st-23d.

Reed-Silberhorn Marriage.

On Wednesday evening of this week Rev. Wilkison, of the Christian church, united in marriage Isaac C. Reed Jr. and Miss Grace Silberhorn at the home of the bride's parents near Calpella. The groom was neatly attired in black while the bride wore a beautiful gown of blue organdie, adorned with orange blossoms. On occount of the illness of Mrs. Silberhorn only the families of the contracting parties were present. A palatable lunch was served after the ceremony, and the bride and groom left on the early morning train for San Francisco to spend a few days. Thus two of Redwood valley's excellent young people begin the voyage of life together with the best wishes of a host of friends for their continued happiness.

BOOSTERS' CLUB FOR UKIAHITES.

The citizens of Ukiah have at last awakened to the fact that nothing can be accomplished without organization. To this end a meeting of the business men was called Friday night and about thirty met in the town hall at the appointed time and proceeded to organize by electing J. H. Barker, president; William Chessall, vice-president; and T. J. Weldon, secretary.

After several speeches had been made, it was decided to make the organization permanent and the Citizen's Promotion Committee was decided as name. The object of the committee will be to promote improvements in the town and vicinity; to advocate and if possible secure better roads leading to neighboring valleys that are tributary to this city; also to boost the town in any legitimate manner.

One of the purposes of the meeting was to endeavor to secure a better grade on the road to Anderson valley and thus endeavor to secure a portion of the trade which now goes to Cloverdale. T. J. Weldon, Charles Hoffman and J. H. Barker were selected to place the matter before the board of supervisors and were successful in getting the matter started, as viewers have been appointed.

Several other committees have been appointed and will be heard from later. The merchants appear very enthusiastic in the matter and will no doubt accomplish much through the medium of a boosters' club.

Real Estate Moving.

During the past week Mrs. Martha J. Ellege, of this city, sold her property in the western addition to Hugh Bradley, who has recently moved here from San Diego county. The price is said to have been about $2000. Mr. Bradley is camping with his family at present at Castle Garden but expects to take possession of his new home in a few months and proceed to improve it.

P. I. Stuparich, of the Stuparich Manufacturing company, of San Francisco has purchased of A. H. Cochran 160 acres in a beautiful situation overlooking Eel river near John Day's and expects at once to begin the building of a fine summer home. Mr. Stuparich is said to be a man of wealth and reports that a number of his friends contemplate buying similar places up here on which to spend their summers.

These sales were made by the firm of Poage & Woodward, of this city, and come as a result of their outside advertising of the county.

Will Have to Wait.

Chief Justice Beattie has issued a restraining order in the estate of Mrs. M. M. Gopcevic preventing the superior judge of Lake county from distributing the estate to the husband of the deceased. The reason for the order was the alleged fact that there was an attempt to obtain the order of distribution in Lake county serreptitiously and without notice to the other heirs who may have interest in the estate. Gopcevic is the gripman who married Miss Floyd in San Francisco about two years ago as the result of a flirtation. The Floyd estate in Lake county is worth nearly half a million.

U. R. K. P.'s Will Visit Willits

A company of Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, will be mustered in at Willits tomorrow night. General McGlashan and staff, Colonel Marks and staff, a detail from Schaffner company and the Fifth Regiment band of this city intend being present. The lodge of Knights of Pythias, which was installed there in January is making steady progress and is reported to have over sixty members. The boys are preparing a royal welcome for their guests which will include music, a ball and a banquet.

Cooling Off.

The man who would sit on a cake of ice to cool off would be considered crazy. Yet it is a very common thing for a person heated by exercise to stand in a cool draught, just to cool off. This is the beginning of many a cough which ultimately involves the bronchial tract and the lungs.

For coughs in any stage there is no remedy so valuable as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures deep-seated, obstinate coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs, and like conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate in consumption.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good."

"I took a severe cold which settled in the bronchial tubes," writes Rev. Frank Hay, of Nortonville, Jefferson Co., Kansas. "After trying medicines labeled 'Sure Cure,' almost without number, I was led to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took two bottles and was cured, and have stayed cured.

"When I think of the great pain I had to endure, and the terrible cough I had, it seems almost a miracle that I was so soon relieved.

"That God may spare you many years and abundantly bless you is the prayer of your grateful friend."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 large pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers or 31 stamps for it in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ALICE OF OLD VINCENNES

By MAURICE THOMPSON

Copyright, 1900, by the BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY

Clark had given Oncle Jazon his flask, which contained a few gills of whisky. This was the first thing offered to Beverley, who wisely took but a swallow. Oncle Jazon was so elated he waved his cap on high and, unconsciously falling into French, yelled in a piercing voice:

"Vive Zhorzh Vasinton! Vive la banniere d'Alice Roussillon!"

Seeing Beverley reminded him of Alice and the flag. As for Beverley, the sentiment braced him and the beloved name brimmed his heart with sweetness.

Clark went to meet them as they came in. He hugged the gaunt lieutenant with genuine fervor of joy, while Oncle Jazon ran around them making a series of grotesque capers. The whole command, hearing Oncle Jazon's patriotic words, set up a wild shouting on the spur of a general impression that Beverley came as a messenger bearing glorious news from Washington's army in the east.

It was a great relief to Clark when he found out that his favorite lieutenant had not broken his parole, but had instead boldly resurrendered himself, declaring the obligation no longer binding and notifying Hamilton of his intention to go away with the purpose of returning and destroying him and his command. Clark laughed heartily when this explanation brought out Beverley's tender interest in Alice, but he sympathized cordially, for he himself knew what love is.

Although Beverley was half starved and still suffering from the kicks and blows given him by Long Hair and his warriors, his exhausting run on the trail of Clark and his band had not worked him serious harm. All of the officers and men did their utmost to serve him. He was feasted without stint and furnished with everything that the scant supply of clothing on the pack horses could afford for his comfort. He promptly asked for an assignment to duty in his company and took his place with such high enthusiasm that his companions regarded him with admiring wonder. None of them save Clark and Oncle Jazon suspected that love for a fair haired girl yonder in Vincennes was the secret of his amazing zeal and intrepidity.

In one respect Clark's expedition was sadly lacking in its equipment for the march. It had absolutely no means of transporting adequate supplies. The pack horses were not able to carry more than a little extra ammunition, a few articles of clothing, some simple cooking utensils and such tools as were needed in improvising rafts and canoes. Consequently, although buffalo and deer were sometimes plentiful, they furnished no lasting supply of meat, because it could not be transported, and as the army neared Vincennes wild animals became scarce, so that the men began to suffer from hunger when within but a few days of their journey's end.

Clark made almost superhuman efforts in urging forward his chilled, water soaked, footsore command. Toward the end of the long march a decided fall of temperature added ice to the water through which our dauntless patriots waded and swam for miles. The wind shifted northwesterly, taking on a searching chill. Each gust, indeed, seemed to shoot wintry splinters into the very marrow of the men's bones. The weaker ones began to show the approach of utter exhaustion just at the time when a final spurt of unflinching power was needed. True, they struggled heroically, but nature was nearing the inexorable limit of endurance. Without food, which there was no prospect of getting, collapse was sure to come.

Standing nearly waist deep in freezing water and looking out upon the muddy, sealike flood that stretched far away to the channel of the Wabash and beyond, Clark turned to Beverley and said, speaking low, so as not to be overheard by any other of his officers or men:

"Is it possible, Lieutenant Beverley, that we are to fail, with Vincennes almost in sight of us?"

"No, sir, it is not possible," was the firm reply. "Nothing must, nothing can, stop us. Look at that brave child! He sets the heroic example."

Beverley pointed as he spoke at a boy but fourteen years old, who was using his drum as a float to bear him up while he courageously swam beside the men.

Clark's clouded face cleared once more. "You are right," he said. "Come on! We must win or die!"

"Sergeant Dewit," he added, turning to an enormously tall and athletic man near by, "take that little drummer and his drum on your shoulder and lead the way, and, sergeant, make him pound that drum like the devil beating tan bark!"

The huge man caught the spirit of his commander's order. In a twinkling he had the boy astride of his neck with the kettledrum resting on his head, and then the rattling music began. Clark followed, pointing onward with his sword. The half frozen and tottering soldiers sent up a shout that went back to where Captain Bowman was bringing up the rear under orders to shoot every man that straggled or shrank from duty.

Now came a time when not a mouthful of food was left. A whole day they floundered on, starving, growing fainter at every step, the temperature falling, the ice thickening. They camped on high land, and next morning they heard Hamilton's distant sunrise gun boom over the water.

"One half ration for the men," said Clark, looking disconsolately in the direction whence the sound had come. "Just five mouthfuls apiece, even, and I'll have Hamilton and his fort within forty-eight hours."

"We will have the provisions, colonel, or I will die trying to get them," Beverley responded. "Depend upon me."

They had constructed some canoes in which to transport the weakest of the men.

"I will take a dugout and some picked fellows. We will pull to the wood yonder, and there we shall find some kind of game which has been forced to shelter from the high water."

It was a cheerful view of a forlorn hope. Clark grasped the hand extended by Beverley and they looked encouragingly into each other's eyes.

Oncle Jazon volunteered to go in the pirogue. He was ready for anything, everything.

"I can't shoot wo'th a cent," he whined as they took their places in the cranky pirogue, "but I might jes' happen to kill a squir'l or a elephant or somepin' 'nother."

"Very well!" shouted Clark in a loud, cheerful voice, when they had paddled away to a considerable distance. "Bring the meat to the woods on the hill yonder," pointing to a distant island-like ridge far beyond the creeping flood. "We'll be there ready to eat it!"

He said this for the ears of his men. They heard and answered with a straggling but determined chorus of approval. They crossed the rolling current of the Wabash by a tedious process of ferrying, and at last found themselves once more wading in back water up to their armpits, breaking ice an inch thick as they went. It was the closing struggle to reach the high wooded lands. Many of them fell exhausted, but their stronger comrades lifted them, holding their heads above water, and dragged them on.

Clark, always leading, always inspiring, was first to set foot on dry land. He shouted triumphantly, waved his sword and then fell to helping the men out of the freezing flood. This accomplished, he ordered fires built, but there was not a soldier of them all whose hands could clasp an ax handle, so weak and numbed with cold were they. He was not to be baffled, however. If fire could not be had, exercise must serve its purpose. Hastily pouring some powder into his hand, he dampened it and blacked his face. "Victory, men, victory!" he shouted, taking off his hat and beginning to leap and dance. "Come on! We'll have a war dance and then a feast as soon as the meat arrives that I have sent for. Dance, you brave lads, dance! Victory! Victory!"

The strong men, understanding their colonel's purpose, took hold of the delicate ones, and the leaping, the capering, the tumult of voices and the stamping of slushy moccasins with which they assaulted that stately forest must have frightened every wild thing thereabout into a deadly rigor. Clark's irrepressible energy and optimism worked a veritable charm upon his faithful but almost dying companions in arms. Their trust in him made them feel sure that food would soon be forthcoming. The thought afforded a stimulus more potent than wine. It drove them into an ecstasy of frantic motion and shouting which soon warmed them thoroughly.

It is said that fortune favors the brave. The larger meaning of the sentence may be given thus: God guards those who deserve his protection. History tells us that just when Clark halted his command almost in sight of Vincennes—just when hunger was about to prevent the victory so close to his grasp—a party of his scouts brought in the haunch of a buffalo captured from some Indians. The scouts were Beverley and Oncle Jazon. And with the meat they brought Indian kettles in which to cook it.

With consummate forethought Clark arranged to prevent his men doing themselves injury by bolting their food or eating it half cooked. Broth was first made and served hot; then small bits of well broiled steak were doled out, until by degrees the fine effect of nourishment set in, and all the command felt the fresh courage of healthy reaction.

"I ain't no gin'ral, nor corp'ral, nor nothin'," remarked Oncle Jazon to Colonel Clark, "but 'f I's you I'd h'ist up every dad dinged ole flag in the rig'ment, w'en I got ready to show myself to 'em, an' I'd make 'em think, over yander at the fort, 'at I had 'bout ninety thousan' men. Hit 'd skeer that sandy faced gov'nor over there till he'd think his backbone was a-comin' out'n 'im by the roots."

Clark laughed, but his face showed that the old man's suggestion struck him forcibly and seriously.

"We'll see about that presently, Oncle Jazon. Wait till we reach the hill yonder, from which the whole town can observe our maneuvers; then we'll try it, maybe."

Once more the men were lined up, the roll call gone through with satisfactorily and the question put:

"Are we ready for another plunge through the mud and water?"

The answer came in the affirmative, with a unanimity not to be mistaken. The weakest heart of them all beat to the time of the charge step. Again Clark and Beverley clasped hands and took the lead.

When they reached the next high ground they gazed in silence across the slushy prairie plot to where, on a slight elevation, old Vincennes and Fort Sackville lay in full view.

Beverley stood apart. A rush of sensations affected him so that he shook like one whose strength was gone. His vision was blurred. Fort and town, swimming in a mist, were silent and still. Save the British flag twinkling above Hamilton's headquarters nothing indicated that the place was not deserted. And Alice? With the sweet name's echo Beverley's heart bounded high, then sank fluttering at the recollection that she was either yonder at the mercy of Hamilton or already the victim of an unspeakable cruelty. Was it weakness for him to lift his clasped hands heavenward and send up a voiceless prayer?

A little later Clark approached hastily and said:

"I have been looking for you. The march has begun. Bowman and Charleville are moving. Come; there's no time to lose."

CALIFORNIA'S CHARM.

How the Visitor From the East Finally Capitulates.

You will not find everything in southern California. You will miss the wide stretches of green in the open places, far removed from the dusty cities, the noble trees, the clear streams of water, the blue lake nestled in among the pine clad mountains. You will miss that splendid miracle the change of the seasons, when your whole nature comes into closer touch with the great mother heart of nature than at any other time in all the year.

You will miss much. But when you have been here a year, when month after month of rare and beautiful weather blend into each other, when the sea woos you and the flowers charm you and the brown mountains beckon you and the soft air soothes you, after a year has passed you find there are some compensations for the lovely things you have left behind you. You come to realize that nature has done more for this stretch of sea and mountain girt land than she has done for any other spot on the globe.

You may have been charmed with California when you came, you may have been captivated after you had been here a year, you may capitulate and consent to be captured by the time two golden summers have stolen over you.—The World Today.

The Only One.

"Charles," said Miss Passay coyly, speaking of her fiance, "is quite individual. He is different from other men."

"Of course; he's willing to be engaged to you," replied Miss Sharpe.—Exchange.

Oakland—Angered at a refusal to supply him with a dime with which to buy a drink, Harley Harper, a Southern Pacific brakeman, stabbed Wm. Baker, a milkman, in the throat, and in his turn the brakeman was shot down by Policeman Caldwell as he tried to run away. Neither was badly hurt, and Walker, after having the gash in his throat sewed up at the receiving hospital, was out again on his milk wagon in half an hour.

ENCAUSTIC PAINTING.

The Art Was Practiced by Ancient Greeks and Romans.

The use of paint brushes is of great antiquity. But as late as the fifteenth century it was customary to apply varnish by smearing it on with the fingers or with a bit of sponge, as the varnishes then used were too viscid to flow well with a brush and could be put on more thinly and evenly with the fingers. This practice was used in the earliest times of which there is any record. The Egyptian mummy cases bear evidence of having been varnished in this manner.

The use of fresco, or water color paints, though the oldest, was not the only method known to the ancients. The Greeks and Romans especially practiced encaustic painting. Encaustic paints were made of clarified beeswax, with which, when melted, pigments were mixed. These paints were applied hot with brushes or spatulæ, and when cold they were given a glazed surface by holding a torch or a hot iron near them. The hot iron was called the "cauterium."

Another method is said to have been to melt the wax with rosin, and after the pigment was added the compound was allowed to cool to a hard and brittle mass, which would be pulverized. The colored powders made in this way were mixed with water, so that they could be applied with a brush like fresco paint, after which they were melted by the cauterium. If rosins were thus used with the wax, a sort of varnish was the result. If the wax was used alone, the finished painting was sometimes varnished. These colored waxes were also used for writing. The red especially was used for royal signatures, whence the use of red sealing wax for a seal. And this "incausticum," as it was called in the middle ages, is the origin of our word ink.—Cassier's Magazine.

THE ALBATROSS.

Curious and Elaborate Dances In Which It Participates.

It is well known that many of the cranes and other long legged wading birds indulge in curious antics that partake closely of the nature of the human dance, but it is not known to many persons that the albatross has the most elaborate and ceremonious dance of them all.

Only very few have ever seen the albatross on land; probably nine persons out of ten who have seen the wonderful birds at all have observed them only on the ocean.

One of the nesting places of this great winged creature is the island of Laysan, in the Pacific ocean, and there at times the ground is absolutely covered with their nests. It is on Laysan that the albatross dance was first seen by a lucky scientist.

The ceremony begins when a lot of the birds are grouped in a circle. Two will advance toward each other, bending and nodding their heads in exact imitation of the human bow. Then they spar with their bills, crossing them gently and still making funny little bows. Then one bird will lower its head and stand quite still in that pose, while the other throws its head back till the bill points straight into the air. It puffs out its breast and advances with a queer, fantastic strut, uttering a curious grunt. The other bird begins to snap its bill till it produces the sound of castanets.

So the two will alternate, advancing and retreating and bowing to each other by turns. Sometimes one will pick up a bit of grass or a feather and offer it to the other. Then a second couple will join the dance, and at last as many as forty of the huge birds may be engaged in the queer pastime.

Condensed Milk Lacks Water.

Steam emanating from boiling milk if condensed would become water. This may be seen in the manufacture of condensed milk, which is only ordinary milk boiled down until the water is out of it. If a liquid which contains solid bodies in solution be evaporated, the solids are left behind. That this is so may be shown by adding to water that is to be distilled a trace of magenta and a little salt. The distilled water has no taste and is colorless. The magenta is generally deposited upon the sides of the boiling vessel.

Correll, who, while here, made many warm friends.—Advocate.

Dr. David Starr Jordan returned to San Francisco by his own conveyance last week. Mrs. Jordan accompanied him from Ukiah as far as Handley's where she staid until the professor's return. Mr. Jordan had intended spending a few days up and down the coast investigating the coast line and various harbors, but had to return at once on Mrs. Jordan's account. We hope to have the eminent gentleman come into this region later, says the Beacon. It will be remembered that Prof. Jordan, in addition to his drawing $10,000 per year as president of the great Stanford university, also receives pay from the government in the nice sum of $20,000 annually as superintendent of fisheries. He makes voyages to the antipodes and the remote portions of the Pacific in the interests of the government, the United States Fish commissioners' steamer, the Albatros, being at his disposal for that purpose. Dr. Jordon is considered one of the best posted men in California as to the coast line and while here freely acknowledged that Mendocino had the best harbor between San Francisco and Eureka and that a breakwater would be built here sooner or later. He also said that Mendocino should be a great fishing center, as enormous schools of the finest edible fish were known to make this vicinity their feeding grounds. Rock cod are freely caught whenever fished for, while flounder, halibut, salmon, smelt, sole and other varieties are taken in in their season.

There's a Difference

In Economy. For instance, it's false economy to buy a $15 or $17 sewing machine, for you are spending your money for a poor article which will give you a few years of very indifferent service. It's false economy, too, to buy a $55 $65, or $75 sewing machine, for then you are paying big profits and a large agent's commission. But it's real true, genuine economy for everyone who needs a new machine to buy

THE PRINCE'S WRAITH.

An Apparition Whose Coming Was a Sign of Death.

King Gustavus IV. of Sweden, who reigned in the early part of the last century, was taking supper one evening with the Prince of Baden and others, among them a Count Lowenhjelm. Suddenly, halfway through the supper, the king let drop his knife and fork and, turning to Lowenhjelm, said, "Look! Don't you see?" at the same time gazing across the table. No one understood what he meant, and so he dropped the subject. Later, after the Prince of Baden had departed, the king said to his companions: "When I asked you whether you saw anything, I had myself distinctly seen the double, or wraith, of the Prince of Baden enter the room and, passing round the table, place itself behind that prince's chair, where it quickly faded away and vanished. You know," added the king, "the terrible import attached in our country to such apparitions, and, having given you the key to what you may well have thought unaccountable conduct on my part, I now request you to keep strictly to yourselves what I have imparted to you." The following evening and at the same hour, according to Count Lowenhjelm, while the court was seated as usual at supper, the clatter of horse's hoofs was heard in the palace quadrangle, and a courier was speedily announced, who brought tidings of a disastrous carriage accident in which the Prince of Baden had lost his life.

Excursions to the East.

Those contemplating an eastern trip will be interested to know that the Rio Grande system is operating via the scenic line of the world daily excursion cars through from the Pacific coast without change to Denver, Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston and intermediate points. These are the Pullman ordinary or tourist sleepers, provided with comfortable berths, bedding and linen of the Pullman standard. They have separate lavatories, are well lighted and heated, and in act only differ from the more expensive standard cars in the character of the upholstery and inside finishing. Besides the colored porter, an excursion manager accompanies the cars for the sole purpose of looking after the welfare and comfort of his party. There is no charge beyond the regular railroad and sleeping car rates to those who accompany these excursions. If you are interested, let us quote you the lowest rates and give you more details, and also furnish you with illustrated books descriptive of the grandest mountain scenery on the American continent. MOB BURNS FIGHT ARENA

Spectators, Incensed by Failure to See Bull Fight, Fires the Building.

St. Louis, June 6.—Incensed over their failure to see a "genuine Spanish bull fight," which the authorities had stopped, a riot was started in an arena near the World's fair grounds last night by a crowd of 2500 men and boys, who were unable to get their money back, and the building was burned to the ground. The price of admission charged was $1. Four men were placed under arrest by the authorities of St. Louis county, charged with the destruction of property. The crowd, thinking these men were connected with the show, made an attempt to mob them, and in their encounter with the deputy sheriffs a number were roughly handled and some received scalp wounds. The building is said to have cost $2500. It is a total loss, with no insurance.

The initial performance by the company of Spanish bull fighters had been advertised widely, but the governor, in response to numerous complaints, ordered that it not be allowed to take place. Despite these orders a large crowd assembled in the arena at the advertised time. Before the regular performance a number of cowboys drove in some bulls, which they ran around the ring in true wild west style. The crowd soon became tired of this and called for the bull fight.

The announcement was then made that the bull fight would be proceeded with. As the matadors came into the ring a county official stepped up to the announcer and handed him a paper, informing him that the proposed show could not take place. When this became known to the crowd they leaped into the arena and demanded the return of their money.

Failing to get this, the crowd went to the office, which was in a small building outside, and began to stone the structure. This was followed by attempts to burn the arena, which is an immense building, constructed of pine. Bits of burning paper were thrown at the woodwork and finally some one went inside and dropped a lighted match in a pile of hay under the arena. The whole structure was soon on fire and before long was in flames.

The fire engine that responded to the alarm stuck in the mud, and there was nothing to stop the progress of the flames. The fire department of the World's fair was called out to protect the fair buildings should it become necessary, but the wind blew in another direction.

FATAL EXPLOSION AT PINOLE.

Two Whites and Five Chinese Killed by Detonation of Nitro-Glycerine.

Berkeley, June 6.—Three hundred pounds of nitro-glycerine exploded at the California Powder works Saturday at Pinole and crushed out the lives of five men, two of them white and three Chinese. In an endeavor to save the entire plant from destruction by the fire that followed the explosion two other white men were injured, one of them so seriously that he may die.

Besides the loss of life there was a great destruction of property. The powder company estimates its loss at $30,000. This was due to the complete wiping out of the gelatine mixing plant, the giant mixing plant and the ice works. All around the incloseures at the works are evidences of the great force of the concussion. Of the two mixing plants there is nothing standing above the ground but a few broken timbers. Only the gelatine plant suffered from the explosion, the other two buildings having burned to the ground after being set afire by the flying debris.

TERRIBLE WORK OF TORNADO.

Chattanooga and Faxons, O. T., Reported to Have Been Destroyed.

Lawton, O. T., June 6.—A tornado in the Kiowa and Comanche nations has demolished a great number of residences and business houses at numerous small towns and laid waste dozens of farms. One person is known to have been killed and about a dozen injured, one fatally. It is reported that the towns of Chattanooga and Faxons, small places, have been entirely destroyed. They are known to have been in the track of the storm. Wires are down and details are lacking. The town of Hulen also is reported to have been completely destroyed.

Oklahoma City, O. T., June 6.—Reports coming in from over Oklahoma and Indian territory indicate that a great amount of damage has resulted from wind, hail and rain storms during the past two days. In Comanche county a severe wind caused much loss. At Walter Mrs. Thomas Payne was killed and a number of others injured. The property loss in the town and county will reach $150,000. Other inland towns are reported to have suffered heavily, and hundreds of acres of growing crops were destroyed.

EARTHQUAKES IN PERU.

Lima, Peru, June 7.—Tacna and Arica, in Chile, were shaken by tremendous earthquakes yesterday. The inhabitants ran into the streets in their night clothes. The walls of many buildings were cracked and the sea was agitated, but, so far as reported, no person was killed.
